FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

How are campers housed?

At Camp Concord, campers sleep in cabins according to the gender each camper identifies with or in a gender-neutral "ally cabin." There is no "one-size-fits-all" housing policy for transgender, non-binary, or nonconforming youth. Due to the limitations of our facility, it will be vitally important that parents/guardians openly communicate about their camper's needs and desires to create the best solution. Some transgender or non-binary or nonconforming youth may feel more comfortable being housed in a cabin with other campers whose gender corresponds to the gender with which they identify. Others may prefer to be lodged with campers of their biological sex or in a gender-neutral "ally cabin." Ally cabins are open to campers regardless of gender. Camp Concord and FOCC staff will work with the campers to create reasonable accommodations that best suit everyone. If parents or campers express discomfort with a cabin assignment, the camp staff will discuss additional housing options available at our facility. Read our complete inclusion statement and policy on our website for more information.

What if there's a potential COVID-19 exposure at camp?

There is a Camp Nurse at camp 24/7 during the duration of the Youth Camp program.

In consultation with the Camp Director and Youth Camp Coordinator, the Camp Nurse will determine if the symptomatic camper is experiencing COVID-19 symptoms versus symptoms such as allergies, dehydration, or other ailments.

If it has been determined a camper is experiencing COVID-19 symptoms, the camper will be given an over-the-counter test. If the test is positive, the camper must leave camp within 8-hours.

Parents/guardians will be notified by email and phone (text or call) of exposure in their camper's cabin.

Parents/guardians of a camper who are bunked in the same cabin with a camper who tested positive for COVID-19 will have the option to pick their camper up at camp.

The positive camper will be quarantined at a designated cabin and supervised by a staff member until the parent/guardian arrives.

All potentially exposed campers and staff will be requested to get tested following camp and report results to Friends of Camp Concord and Camp Concord.
